

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SILICON VALLEY, CALIFORNIA– December 17, 2012 – The Santa Clara Computer & High Technology Law Journal, one of the top ten intellectual property law journals in the nation, is pleased to announce the release of Issue 1 of its twenty-ninth volume. Volume 29, Issue 1 can be found online at www.chtlj.org.

The first issue features four outstanding pieces that focus on emerging issues in intellectual property law. These publications include:

William K. Ford and Raizel Liebler's comprehensive and timely exploration of the right of publicity and its relation to video games in Games Are Not Coffee Mugs: Games and the Right of Publicity.

Meg Leta Ambrose, Nicole Friess, and Jill Van Matre's thought provoking application of forgiveness laws in the digital context in Seeking Digital Redemption: The Future of Forgiveness in the Internet Age.

Francesca Svarcas' intriguing analysis of the legal implications of data collection in electric cars in Turning a New LEAF: A Privacy Analysis of Carwings Electric Vehicle Data Collection and Transmission.

Matthew Lafferman's astute evaluation of First Amendment law under the lens of social media in Do Facebook and Twitter Make You a Public Figure? How to Apply the Gertz Public Figure Doctrine to Social Media.

The Santa Clara Computer & High Technology Law Journal is an independent scholarly legal publication founded in 1984. The Journal has achieved national and international circulation and recognition as a leading forum for multidisciplinary discourse on issues at the juncture of technology, the law, and public policy. For more information please visit www.chtlj.org.

Press Contact:

Gabriella E. Zicarelli
Editor-in-Chief, Volume 29
gabriella.zicarelli@chtlj.org