DEDICATION
EDWIN A. HEAFEY

For a generation, Edwin Heafey was a moving force at the University of Santa Clara School of Law. Although he was not an alumnus of the law school, his generosity built the library that carries his name and later provided half the funds for its enlargement. Mr. Heafey was a great friend not only of the law school but also of this University at which he earned his baccalaureate degree. He served on the Board of Trustees from 1967 until shortly before his death and only recently made a significant donation to match gifts from law school alumni for law school scholarships. In 1963, the University recognized his many contributions by awarding him an honorary Doctor of Laws Degree.

Mr. Heafey was important in his profession as well. He was senior partner in a major Oakland law firm, a former president of the State Bar of California and of the Alameda County Bar Association. He was also a Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers and the American Bar Foundation.

Throughout his long life, his generosity was felt by many. For those of us at Santa Clara, however, his death seemed singularly personal. He devoted himself uniquely to our needs, and it is with pride and gratitude that the Editors of the Santa Clara Law Review respectfully dedicate this issue to his memory.
